

SARUM
COLLEGE

Courses & Events Programme

Autumn 2011 to Summer 2012

Welcome

There have been a number of new developments since last year when we marked 15 years of Sarum College and 150 years of theological teaching and learning at 19 The Close. Proud as we are of our history, the present and future has been our primary focus in recent months.

The Sarum Community itself grew last autumn when the former principal's house became the Benedictine Priory. Home to Dom Bruce, Dom Francis, Dom Kenneth and Prior Simon, we're delighted that the former Elmore Abbey monks are with us and part of the greater Close community. They're terrific company at meals and we value their contribution to prayers and courses.

On the education front, our Christian leadership programme now includes an MA degree in addition to the short-course and workshop options. With the departure of Susan Stephenson, who so ably directed Sarum's spirituality programme, we welcome Louise Nelstrop in July and know that many of you will benefit from her expertise in mysticism and practical theology, especially as it relates to new forms of church and to health care.

In the bookshop, alongside the usual menu of stimulating events – launches, signings, guest author talks – manager Jenny Monds now runs a bookclub for group discussions on selected titles.

September sees the launch of Sarum's new visual arts programme with The Word: A Reflection on the King James

Bible, an exhibition of sculpture and lettering on stone, glass and fabric.

You'll find more on this and all the other courses and events planned for the coming academic year in this brochure though further detail and new items are always being updated. Stay current by joining our enewsletter mailing list and checking the college website. Doing so will be even more worth your while later this month when our new website is launched (June 2011). Expect a clearer layout and more straightforward ways to search for courses and events.

Finally, builders are poised to refurbish our 20 standard bedrooms so that all our guests can enjoy modern, en-suite accommodation. The works have been carefully planned to renovate just three rooms at a time but there will undoubtedly be some disruption. Grateful thanks in advance for your patience during this time.

As ever, we are happy to hear your comments and suggestions for improvement and look forward to welcoming you to Sarum College very soon.

About Sarum College

Our Vision

Sarum College is an ecumenical centre for Christian study and research where our passion is learning that nourishes the human spirit.

Welcoming people of all faiths and none, we offer space and time for enquiring minds to grow in wisdom and courage.

A Unique Environment

Situated in Grade 1 Listed buildings in Salisbury's Cathedral Close, Sarum College is an inspirational venue.

We hope to welcome everyone who comes to Sarum with a hospitality grounded in Christian belief and practice.

We strive to be more than just kind or helpful by anticipating your needs and generously surpassing those needs.

All visitors, whether or not on a course here, are welcome to book overnight accommodation, meals, meeting rooms and to enjoy our specialist library and bookshop.

"This is my second stay at Sarum College and I could not recommend it highly enough as a very special, warm, welcoming, peaceful and nurturing place to stay: almost a mini-retreat, and in one of the most beautiful places in the world, in the Cathedral Close! Thank you!"

Margaret Norwich, B&B guest May 2011

About Sarum College

Accommodation

Bedroom prices vary. Standard rooms, which have a hand basin in the room and a shared bathroom nearby, are the cheapest. En-suite rooms are a bit more expensive and the seven premier rooms are top of the range: two have a separate sitting room (ideal for study breaks and other long-term stays) with cathedral views across the rooftops of the Close and the others are recently refurbished with breath-taking cathedral views.

Baker suite, a premier room with sitting area

Once the College's programme of refurbishment is complete, all rooms will have en-suite facilities.

Price key

Residential courses are in these categories:

N = non-residential

S = standard room (shared bathroom)

E = en-suite room*

P = premier room*

*Subject to availability

Please ask hospitality staff for prices and availability.

Catering

Richard Amey and his catering team will prepare delicious, beautifully served food for all occasions. Choose from pre-set menus or come into the College for a visit and to discuss your requirements for a bespoke menu.

Serving wholesome food is another way to make your stay with us special. Nearby farms supply all meat and a good deal of our vegetables and herbs. Bread and pastry is made by hand on site.

Unsurprising, then, that people come early for and stay on after courses to squeeze in another lunch or two! We're also happy to take lunch bookings altogether separate from courses as long as we've got your meal or sandwich order by 10 am on the day. Suppers are sometimes available too, just enquire at Reception.

About Sarum College

Bookshop

Just off the reception area is the Sarum College Bookshop which stocks a wide range of theological books, from academic to popular titles, as well as bibles, liturgical resources, church supplies, greeting cards and gifts.

With so much to choose from, it's an ideal place to browse.

Personal attention is a priority: the shop offers mail order service and staff are happy to search for books on any subject, including out-of-print titles.

Bookshop manager Jenny Monds also runs a great number of events throughout the year. As well as book launches, signings and guest author talks, readers can come along to the bookclub sessions for group discussions on selected titles.

There is a 10% discount for course participants.

Jenny Monds, bookshop manager and librarian

Library

Since it was founded in 1860 the library has developed into an outstanding academic theological collection of more than 35,000 books.

The stock covers all denominations, and is particularly strong in the areas of Christian spirituality, ethics, the Bible and liturgy. The library offers reading rights, borrowing rights and an enquiry service to students and external members throughout this country and abroad. Books can be supplied by post.

Library users enjoy study space, internet access via PC or Wifi, and word processing facilities.

Residential scholars are welcome. Day visitors may book in for lunch (before 10 am) and use the college common room and drinks machine.

About Sarum College

Rosie Norman, Friends co-ordinator

Friends of Sarum College

Friends are a vital part of the fabric of Sarum College. A group of loyal people who support the aims of the College, they encourage our work in many ways through prayer, promoting our programme in local churches and communities, volunteer work and financial support.

Friends benefit from an ongoing connection with the College and personal contact with Friends co-ordinator Rosie Norman, invitations to three meetings per year (including one weekend), regular updates, and a quarterly newsletter.

For details, contact Rosie Norman rn@sarum.ac.uk or 01722 424812

Volunteers

Volunteers help Sarum College by doing a variety of tasks, including shelving books, gardening, organising publicity, cleaning and serving tea.

Peter Chase runs the second-hand section of the bookshop

Howard Norman works in marketing and gardening

Sue Armour works in the bookshop, library and helps with publicity

The Sarum Community grew in autumn 2010 when the former principal's house became the Benedictine Priory and is now home to (l to r) Dom Francis, Prior Simon, Dom Kenneth and Dom Bruce.

Education Programme

Postgraduate Study

Sarum College offers four postgraduate programmes leading to a PGCert, PGDip or an MA degree.

Collaborative learning in small groups combined with guided home-based study allows students to benefit from close contact with tutors and lecturers, with minimal disruption to domestic, ministerial or professional responsibilities.

Each programme has one or two core modules and a range of optional modules to allow students to shape their own course of learning. Some programmes share modules for greater breadth of study.

Modules are taught in four-day residential intensives held throughout the year, making the programmes accessible to those who live outside the area or even overseas. Classes and additional assessed work are credit-rated. Proposals for MPhil and PhD degrees are welcome. Students usually complete the MA within three years.

For full details including fee structure, download an application pack from www.sarum.ac.uk and follow the links.

Ecumenism and Worship

As an ecumenical charity, we strive to bring together scholars and practitioners from all Christian churches for mutually respectful conversation.

Through our study, research and teaching, we encourage constructive engagement with historic church traditions and with emerging and new expressions of Christian community.

All visitors are welcome to join staff in daily prayers at 12.45 pm in the Butterfield Chapel and in the celebration of the Eucharist on the first Thursday of the month at 12.30 pm.

Postgraduate Study: Theology, Imagination and Culture

MA in Theology, Imagination and Culture

Theology is expressed through signs, symbols, metaphors, myths and stories. This interdisciplinary programme examines the role of theological expression in how culture shapes our experience of God's work.

Throughout the course, we will develop creative ways of imaginatively engaging with theology and culture to deepen theological understanding and enliven faith practices.

The MA programme is directed by Michael DeLashmutt and is taught by an international team of experts so that students will be exposed to the most current ideas and research in the field.

Core Module

Theology and Human Culture

course code 2511

Mon 24–Thur 27 October 2011

This module will engage with the 'texts' and practices of human culture and encourage students to explore the nature of the relationship between theology and culture. Throughout, students will be given the opportunity to refine and update their knowledge of theologians and key theological debates as they relate to human culture, show how central theological ideas are expressed through different forms of culture in history and today, and be given opportunities to reflect critically upon human culture through theological lenses.

Academic Staff

Michael W. DeLashmutt is Sarum's director of studies and honorary research fellow of the Department of Theology and Religion at Exeter University. His research examines the relationship between the beliefs and practices of the Christian churches and everyday life.

Jane Gledhill is a lecturer in Christian Spirituality at Sarum College and an independent scholar. Her research interests are in literature, art and spirituality.

Postgraduate Study: Theology, Imagination and Culture

Optional Modules

■ Re-imagining Church in a Changing Culture course code 2521

Mon 5–Thur 8 December 2011

This module aims to go beyond the headlines about the continuing decline in church membership to equip students to critique the contemporary church using both theological and sociological tools. The church in Britain will be examined in the wider context of social, religious and cultural change, and compared with the situation in Europe, America and the developing world. The challenges facing the contemporary church and the responses it offers will be examined critically and with reference to patterns of community, mission and ministry.

■ Theology and Film course code 2708

Mon 9–Thur 12 January 2012

After a brief introduction to film studies, this module will explore the historical relationship between theology and film, as well as the reception (ranging from prohibition to utilisation) of film by the Christian churches. Students will spend considerable time looking at and studying selected films to develop the critical skills helpful for film interpretation and explore possible theological approaches to film criticism.

■ God, Beauty and the Imagination: Theological Aesthetics course code 2524

Mon 12–Thur 15 March 2012

A general introduction to aesthetics and in particular to theological aesthetics, as illustrated by the central theological doctrines of the incarnation, the cross, the resurrection and the Trinity. Students read and discuss relevant writings by theologians relating to themes such as imagination, beauty, divine revelation, truth and meaning and art as locus theologicus.

Music in Christian Worship

Literature and Spirituality

Art, Belief and Spirituality

Reflective Practice (see page 9)

Associate Tutors

Juliette Day (see page 13).

Chris Deacy is senior lecturer in applied theology at the University of Kent. His research interests include death, immortality and redemption in film.

Colin Greene is a fellow in bible, theology and culture at St John's College, University of Durham, and director of Metavista Consultancy. He writes on Christian theologies of culture, biblical theology and Christian leadership.

Brannon Hancock is a composer and an author. He is minister of worship and arts at a parish in Ohio (USA) where his work combines practical theology, music, liturgy and popular culture.

David Holgate is principal of the Southern Theological Education and Training Scheme (STETS) which offers flexible ministerial training. He specialises in mission, culture and scripture.

Gesa Thiessen is a member of the systematic theology and history department at Milltown Institute. Her research interests are in theological aesthetics/theology and the arts and ecclesiology.

Postgraduate Study: Christian Approaches to Leadership

MA in Christian Approaches to Leadership

The search for leaders and the understanding of what defines leadership in business, political, public and religious life is not a modern phenomenon but has re-emerged as a compelling issue in society.

Contemporary discussions about leadership not only explore what it means and how it works but also the place of faith and religious conviction among our leaders.

In this programme, students conduct research and develop practical skill in exercising leadership as a person of faith.

The MA programme is directed by Mervyn Davies and is taught by a team of experts so that students will be exposed to the most current ideas and research in the field.

Core Modules

Faith and Leadership

course code 2527

Mon 24–Thur 27 October 2011

The module will include critical reflection on how leadership and management within the changing nature of contemporary society can be informed by insights from selected spiritual and theological traditions within religion and especially Christianity and are related to a theological view of faith, vocation, the Church and its mission.

This module will include a personality inventory questionnaire for which there is an additional charge.

Reflective Practice

course code 2605

Mon 9–Thur 12 January 2012

A methodological and hermeneutical study of how reflective practice can underpin and challenge an understanding of leadership. It will introduce students to contemporary models of reflective practice both in the educational, theological and business worlds and encourage reflection on how these models inform and critique one another. Students will practice a variety of methods so that they can select and design their own models to apply in their own environment.

Mervyn Davies

Keith Lamdin

Academic Staff

Mervyn Davies is a scholar-in-residence at Sarum College. His interests include the development of theology, Reformation history and the theology and practice of church leadership.

Keith Lamdin is principal of Sarum College. He has developed leadership training for church leaders, and acts as a leadership coach in the church, as well as charitable and health care organisations.

Postgraduate Study: Christian Approaches to Leadership

Optional Modules

Personal Development course code 2509

Mon 14–Thur 17 May 2012

A methodological and hermeneutical study of contemporary management strategies for using feedback to develop and evaluate personal development plans in faith-based and secular contexts. There will be a critical study of the significance of emotional and spiritual intelligence theories for the development of self awareness and management of self in a leadership context. Students will also design a feedback mechanism and personal development plan for collaborative assessment.

The modules below will be run during the next two academic years.

Change and Conflict
Understanding Organisations
Leadership and the Unconscious in Organisations
Faith-based Leadership in the Public Square
Working Together
Guided Reading

Associate Tutors

Graham Dodds is director of Learning Communities for the Diocese of Bath & Wells. His research interests are in ecclesiology and education.

Roger Matthews is director of ministry and mission in the Diocese of Chelmsford and oversees its clergy leadership programme. He is also a trustee of the Leadership Institute.

Tim Harle teaches at the Bristol Business School, University of the West of England, and is an independent leadership consultant specialising in organisational transformation through cultural change.

Postgraduate Study: Christian Spirituality

MA in Christian Spirituality

The search for spirituality is one of the most striking aspects of contemporary Western cultures. It is vitally important to the life of the Church, to the enrichment of theology, to ecumenism, to interfaith understanding and to discussion about public values.

In this programme students examine spirituality from historical, theological, psychological and other perspectives.

The MA programme is directed by Louise Nelstrop and is taught by a team of academics and experts in different aspects of spirituality.

Fountains Abbey

Core Modules

Foundations and Forms of Christian Spirituality course code 2500

Mon 10–Thur 13 October 2011

Introduction to the academic study of Christian spirituality by exploring different spiritual traditions.

The Contemporary Study of Christian Spirituality course code 2537

Mon 16–Thur 19 January 2012

Exploration of contemporary understandings of spirituality, including postmodernism, and of current debates on the relationship between religion and spirituality.

Academic Staff

Mervyn Davies (see page 9).

Patrick Moore is a scholar in residence at Sarum College. He specialises in aesthetics and is a member of the De La Salle brothers.

Barbara Mosse specialises in Celtic and medieval spirituality and is an Anglican priest.

Louise Nelstrop specialises in medieval mysticism and practical theology, particularly as it relates to the emerging church and healthcare.

Optional Modules

Sexuality and Spirituality course code 2532

Mon 28 November–Thur 1 December 2011

An overview of the methodological tools required for an academic examination of the interface between sexuality and spirituality. It investigates how sexuality has been viewed in the Christian tradition; how these attitudes inform Christian spirituality today; and how Christian spirituality can respond to the contemporary issues of gender and sexuality.

Pastoral Ministry and Spirituality and Christian Spiritual Direction course code 2529

Mon 5–Thur 8 March 2012

Please note that this module is not a training course either in spiritual direction or in counselling

An exploration of the nature of Christian ministry, broadly defined. This module addresses some central issues in pastoral ministry such as: faith development, ageing, and death and dying. Students are introduced to a variety of forms and traditions of spiritual guidance in the Christian tradition.

Postgraduate Study: Christian Spirituality

Optional Modules

■ Medieval Spirituality course code 2531

Mon 16–Thur 19 April 2012

This module examines the politics and cultural movements that affected the development of Christian spirituality during the medieval period. It considers the role of women in the period and assesses the impact of the Crusades on the development of relationships with Islam.

■ Contemporary Spirituality course code 2510

Mon 21–Thur 24 May 2012

This module looks at recent developments in spirituality, particularly in light of writing on the 'spiritual revolution' within theology, sociology, psychology, philosophy and literary criticism. Students will study a range of authors and texts from Christian and non-Christian traditions to gain a broader perspective on the spiritual quest in the contemporary context.

Associate Tutors

Jane Gledhill (see page 7).

Susan Stephenson specialises in spirituality and contemporary philosophy, and spirituality and contemporary literature. She is a member of The Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) and Sarum's former director of spirituality programmes.

Andrew Walker is director of the Ignatian Spirituality Programme based in London. He is a psychosynthesis counsellor and supervisor and an Anglican priest.

Mairead Quigley is Pastoral Tutor to the MA in Christian Spirituality. She is a member of the Society of the Sacred Heart.

Postgraduate Study: Christian Liturgy

MA in Christian Liturgy

This unique programme is designed to provide a comprehensive study of the major aspects of Christian worship, drawing upon historical, theological and contemporary pastoral themes.

Students will have the opportunity to study modules that explore a range of themes related to the development and interpretation of different aspects of Christian worship.

Students also will be encouraged to pursue their own particular interests through a variety of assessment tasks.

The MA programme is directed by Juliette Day and is taught by a team of nationally and internationally recognised liturgical experts so that students will be exposed to the latest research methods and results.

Core Module

Introduction to Liturgical Study

course code 2602

Mon 10–Thur 13 October 2011

An introduction to the sources and methods used by liturgical scholars in the evaluation of liturgical history and contemporary worship events.

Academic Staff

Juliette Day is director of liturgical studies at Sarum College. She has published on early baptismal and eucharistic liturgies and has research interests in liturgical theology and methodology.

"I have gained an immense appreciation for not only my prayer book, the ECUSA Book of Common Prayer, but also for how the church universal has developed the work of the people, its liturgy. My ministry as a deacon has been greatly enriched as I put what I've learned into practical use."

MA in Christian Liturgy
student Janet
MacNally

Research in Christian Liturgy and Worship

Sarum College is developing formal and informal ways to encourage research in the discipline. Proposals for the research degrees of MPhil and PhD in any area of liturgical studies are welcome. These would be co-supervised with an academic colleague at UK universities.

A supervised study project in Christian liturgy and worship enables individuals to pursue an independent research topic in the discipline with expert assistance in the design, research and writing of a report. The project can be individually tailored to suit the time and resources of the researcher and is designed particularly for ministers on sabbatical or wishing to prepare for an aspect of liturgical renewal in their congregation.

For further information on research opportunities please contact Juliette Day directly by email: jday@sarum.ac.uk

Juliette Day

Postgraduate Study: Christian Liturgy

Optional Modules

Liturgy, Mission and Cultures course code 2686

Mon 5–Thur 8 December 2011

An investigation of liturgy and mission, attempting to identify the changing understanding of how these two ecclesial actualities interact and to chart the role of culture in relation to the missionary imperative expressed in the liturgy. Reflection on these issues will be in relation to theological concepts and to the published policy documents of the church and their critics. Students will be encouraged to reflect critically on the pastoral implications of the material discussed.

The Eucharist course code 2518

Mon 12–Thur 15 March 2012

This module explores the development of eucharistic worship from the New Testament to the contemporary church through an analysis of the most significant primary and secondary sources. Students will gain an understanding of the theological, historical and social influences upon the eucharist and be equipped for independent study of the topic.

Worship, Art and Architecture course code 2519

Mon 18–Thur 21 June 2012

This module investigates church buildings and their art in selected and typical historical periods to highlight the key interpretative issues. It will consider 20th century and contemporary responses to social and theological change demonstrated in Christian architecture. Students will be encouraged to reflect upon the use of liturgical space in specific contexts.

Associate Tutors

Paul Bradshaw is professor of liturgy at Notre Dame University (USA) and is one of the leading liturgical historians who has been heavily involved with liturgical revision in the Church of England.

Bridget Nichols is lay chaplain and research assistant to the Anglican bishop of Ely and chair of the Society for Liturgical Study. Her research interests include the Book of Common Prayer, early Latin liturgical texts and Collects.

Thomas O'Loughlin is professor of historical theology at Nottingham University. His research and publication interests include early and medieval theological and biblical studies, as well as scholarly and popular contributions on contemporary worship.

Alistair Stewart is priest theologian at Sherborne Abbey and has published on the themes of early paschal, homiletic and liturgical texts.

Martin Stringer is professor of liturgical and congregational studies at the University of Birmingham. A trained anthropologist, his research in contemporary Christian worship uses social science methodology.

Phillip Tovey is director of licensed local ministry in the Diocese of Oxford and teaches at Oxford Brookes University and Ripon College, Cuddesdon. He publishes on aspects of contemporary worship in the UK.

Thomas Whelan is dean of theology at Milltown Institute where he teaches pastoral liturgy, mission and culture. His research interests include ritual music, early and medieval Latin texts, and the political and social dimensions of worship.

Patricia Rumsey (Sr Francisca) is a member of the Poor Clares and a visiting scholar of Sarum College. She researches in the field of Christian prayer and monasticism.

Non-Accredited Courses

Theology and Culture

When we engage in theological study we become part of an ongoing conversation that spans time and culture. In playing a part in this dialogue we join a quest to understand and interpret our experience of the present by encountering God's activity in the past and God's promises for the future.

Courses and programmes on theology at Sarum support a thoughtful engagement with the gospel and encourage a more effective response to contemporary challenges.

Courses: Theology and Culture

Biblical Study Breaks

Biblical literacy is at the heart of a well-rounded theological education. Designed to give students an opportunity for sustained study of a single biblical book, these courses are led by emerging and eminent scholars who bring fresh perspectives to the study of scripture.

Students come away from these breaks with a renewed passion for scripture and a deeper sense of the scholarly issues surrounding the text. Sessions may consist of a mix of lectures, small group work, and guided self-study. Access to the library during the course is included.

Arrivals 12.30 pm Monday for 1 pm lunch. Departures after lunch Thursday. No evening sessions. Residential price includes breakfast and lunch. Suppers may be available as an optional extra.

Mark course code 2487
Tues 15–Fri 18 November 2011

'Let anyone with ears to hear listen!' – the enigmatic invitation of that maestro of gospel writing, Mark. In recent years we have learnt to listen with the ears of those who first heard his great work read aloud, and to be sensitive to the skilled construction of his story. And so there come alive in fresh ways the hidden meaning of the secrecy of his Jesus, the apparent oddity of his treatment of Jesus's followers, the bold coverage of a horrifying death, and the resonance of the final message that 'he is not here'. Mark's Jesus is alive! Mark's Gospel comes alive!

Reading Psalms course code 2574
Mon 6–Thur 9 February 2012

In its long and varied career, the Book of Psalms has been 'hymn book', 'prayer book' and 'theology manual'. This course will explore the different voices (praise, Shalom, dissonance, Penitence, Hope, Spirituality and Theology) found in the Book, engage in close reading and exegesis of selected psalms and introduce the two current new developments in psalm study. What does this ancient anthology, now increasingly neglected in the church, have to teach us about God and the meaning of life and faith?

Peter Selby

Crime, Custody, Punishment, Forgiveness

course code 2486

Mon 21–Tues 22 November 2011

There are few topics which offer as fertile a ground for theological reflection as crime and punishment. Fundamental issues of Christian doctrine – the created order, the fall, sin and forgiveness, the justice of God and the mercy of God – are exposed to the reality of social disorder and the responses of those whose task is to maintain order and enforce the law.

This conversation will be led by two theologians both committed to examining the connections and the dissonances between life in society and the fundamentals of Christian believing.

Leaders Alistair McFadyen is senior lecturer in theology and religious studies at the University of Leeds and has served on the Doctrine Commission of the Church of England; Peter Selby is the former bishop of Worcester and bishop to HM Prisons, visiting professor at the International Centre for Prison Studies and theologian in residence at Sarum College.

Mon 30 April, Tues 1, Wed 2, Thur 3 May 2012
7 pm in Salisbury Cathedral

With the rise of asymmetric warfare, does the traditional understanding of just war theory work in the 21st century? Does human rights legislation have a place on the battlefield? And has secularisation undermined the moral substructure of the British army?

The Sarum Theological Lecture 2011 speaker was Tom Wright. In addition to the evening lectures, he gave a seminar on Paul in the College's Anderson room. (Photo by Ash Mills)

Speaker

Giles Fraser is the canon chancellor of St Paul's Cathedral and lectures on ethics and leadership at the Defence Academy at Shrivenham.

He is a frequent contributor to Radio 4's Thought For The Day.

With lectures on four consecutive evenings, why not come for the week and be just steps away from the Cathedral? While you're here, you can enjoy Sarum's delicious meals, specialist library and bookshop. Contact Alison Ogden for programme and accommodation details.

Price £24 series of four; £7 per lecture.

Courses: Leadership and Ministry

Christian leadership and ministry takes vision, energy, courage and skill.

Sarum's programmes are designed for busy leaders who can find short periods of time to get away and think deeply about their vocation and practice.

The College also runs bespoke leadership training and development programmes. Enquiries are welcome from individuals and organisations.

Renewing Ministry

A chance for ministers to unwind, be quiet and pray, sleep or walk, enjoy the Cathedral and its Close, browse in our library and read. If you also want to talk with a ministry consultant or spiritual director, we can organise that as well.

- Self-directed reflection, prayer and study
- Mentored reflection
- Guided study leave – sabbatical

If none of these options fit what you think you need, get in touch. Whatever you do here we know you will leave with a sense of renewed ministry and your spirit nourished.

Prices vary according to options selected.

Leading Change

course code 2581

Mon 20–Tues 21 February 2012

The church is ambivalent about change. We sing to a God who 'changeth not' but leaders can see how the church could be better and we seek to bring change and development.

This workshop covers change in both theory and practice, focusing on the issues that participants bring either to help understand why change has not happened as they hoped, or to consider and plan a change.

Leader Keith Lamdin (see page 9)

Developing Vision, Purpose and Strategy

course code 2587

Mon 23–Tues 24 April 2012

Does your church have a vision statement and has it made any difference? This workshop will seek to explore the difference between vision, purpose and strategy and provide opportunity for participants to work at drafting new ideas and receiving feedback on them and reviewing and redrafting existing statements and policies.

Transforming Clergy Leadership

course code 2729

Mon 2–Fri 6 July 2012

Churches Changing Together: An Ecumenical Overview

course code 2671

Sat 30 June 2012, 10 am–4.30 pm

Churches have had to adapt their sense of mission to accommodate tremendous changes during the past 20 years: ethical questions posed by new technologies; the widened gulf between the rich and the poor; the decline in many mainline churches; and a growing multi-cultural society.

This one-day conference in association with Churches Together in England will assess the present state of ecumenism in Britain, and sketch future plans.

Price £40 including lunch and refreshments

Mysticism in the Modern World

course code 2670

Fri 13–Sun 15 July 2012

This conference will explore some of the ways in which mysticism is and has been used by those on the edges of Christian culture to shape their spiritual and social lives.

Topics include the importance of mysticism for women as part of their spiritual and social journeys, the relationship between mysticism and nature and the development of nature theology by writers like Teilhard de Chardin, the relationship between mysticism and the erotic, and the way in which mystical writers are now being re-appropriated in modern church settings.

Organisers David Carter is a visiting scholar at Sarum College; Maggie Guillebaud is associate chaplain at Sarum College.

Worship and Song Celebrating the Gift of Love

Wed 15–Fri 17 February 2012

Ubi Caritas: Where love is, there is God also. An exploration of the theme of love using sacred song through the ages and from around the world.

Valentine's Day is highly commercialised but celebrates in the secular sphere something that Jesus commanded His disciples to do: 'Love one another'. We join together in prayer and music from across the ages and from the worldwide church to celebrate the gift of love as demonstrated to us by Jesus's life and example, and ultimately by His death and resurrection.

Director Leah Perona-Wright is a singer, vocal specialist and directs choirs of all ages and abilities. She is former director of the RSCM Voice for Life programme, and an examiner for the RSCM singing awards.

Price N £185 S £245 E £275 P £305

Fees for individual or student members of the RSCM, and members of choirs affiliated with the RSCM are discounted £20 on all the above prices.

■ Art and The Old Testament course code 2488

Sat 25 February 2012, 10 am–4.30 pm

In what sense is God the creator of the world? What is the covenant promise God made to his people? How is God holy and wise? For whom is God saviour? We shall tackle these questions concerning God in the Old Testament by examining paintings by artists, from medieval to modern.

■ Evil, Sin and Suffering course code 2489

Sat 31 March 2012, 10 am–4.30 pm

Why is there evil in the world? Why are the sins of pride, envy, lust and murder so bad? Why do innocent people suffer? How does Christ's suffering affect our suffering today?

We will explore these questions by examining paintings by several artists, from the 11th century to the 21st.

Art Exhibitions

Sarum College will launch its new arts programme in September 2011 with The Word – A Reflection on the King James Bible.

This new arts venture will form part of Sarum's academic programme and include two major exhibitions every year, displays of the drawings of sculptors exhibiting in Salisbury Cathedral, and opportunities for local schools and artists to show their work.

The Word – A Reflection on the King James Bible

Fri 2 September–Mon 19 December 2011

Sarum College's first exhibition departs from those events celebrating the 400th anniversary of the publication of the King James Bible which focus on language. Before widespread literacy and the availability of the Bible either in English or in print, its stories were told through stained glass, sculpture and engravings.

With this precedent for spreading the Word through visual art in mind, Sarum College will be filled with works in sculpture and lettering on stone, glass and fabric by artists including Peter Eugene Ball, Frederic Chevarin ARBS, Zoe Cull and Alex Evans, Robyn Golden-Hann, Elizabeth Herkströter, Giles Macdonald, Mary Noble (calligrapher), Suzanne Redstone ARBS, Tracey Sheppard FGE and Roger Stephens.

Each exhibit is a unique reflection on the cultural importance of the King James Bible and its contribution to society through Christianity.

Forthcoming

The Art of Healing

Fri 27 January–May 2012 (closing date tbc)

This exhibition on the relationship between art and health, healing, and wholeness will be opened by Richard Cork whose forthcoming book, The Healing Presence of Art – A History of Western Art in Hospitals, focuses on the humanising effect art has had on hospitals since the Middle Ages.

In the meantime ...

There will be two smaller exhibitions during summer 2011:

Thur 23 June–Fri 15 July 2011

Sarum Academy end of year show for students. All media.

Fri 22 July–Fri 26 August 2011

Sean Henry sketches and drawings from his Salisbury Cathedral exhibition, Conflux: A Union of the Sacred and the Anonymous, which features more than 20 sculptures of dramatically different scales and positioned in expected and unexpected places in and around the cathedral.

Cancellation policy

Please note that 10% of all course fees is a non-refundable deposit. Special conditions apply to retreats and foreign trips. Sarum College does not offer refunds for cancellations within 28 days of the course. For residential courses, we recommend that you take out a travel insurance policy which covers overnight stays in the UK.

The course information in this brochure is correct at the time of printing. However, we may change the content and timing of the course, replace the tutor or cancel a course on the rare occasions these actions may be necessary.

Please contact us prior to your course to confirm the details.

Keep In Touch

Website

Visit www.sarum.ac.uk to visit our re-launched website in late June/early July.

In addition to the most current programme information, the new site will have more to see and read, with plenty of images, transcripts and podcasts from our courses and events.

As our course brochure is now published annually, we send an occasional newsletter for programme reminders and updates. If you're not already on our distribution list and wish to be, email Christine on cnc@sarum.ac.uk

How to Find Us

Public transport is the best way to travel to Sarum College.

Arrival by Bus or Train

Sarum College is approximately a ten-minute walk from either station.

Park and Ride (for day-time courses Monday through Saturday)

There are five drop-off sites:

From the North: A345 (Beehive Roundabout)

From the South: A338 at Britford

From the South-East: A36 Southampton Road

From the East: A30 London Road

From the West: A36 at Wilton

Connecting buses stop within a ten-minute walk of Sarum College.

Please note that Park and Ride sites are closed evenings and Sundays.

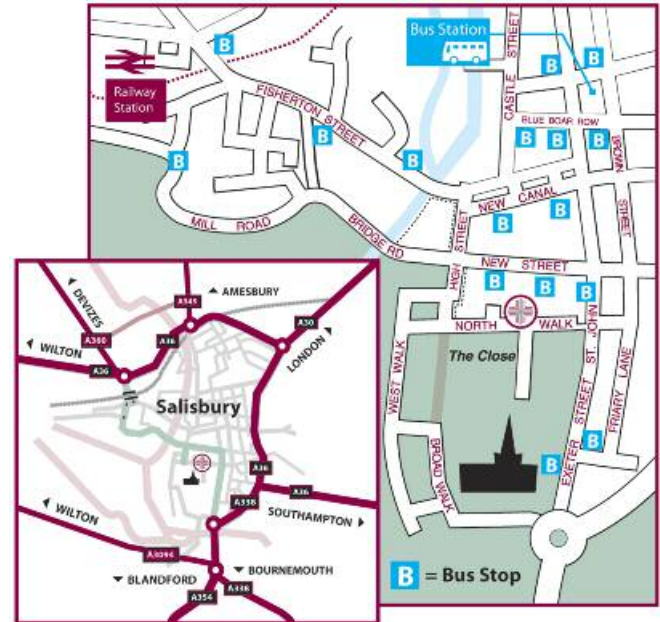

For more information, visit the Park and Ride website:

www.salisbury.gov.uk/transport/parking/park-and-ride.htm

By Car

Parking on College grounds is very limited and available on a first-come, first-served basis. If you require a disabled parking space, please contact us to arrange. Phone 01722 424800 or email hospitality@sarum.ac.uk
