

Weekends 2015-16

As you know, we have made a couple of changes to the residential weekends starting in September 2015 which we hope will make a positive difference to how we can stand by you in the course.

The first change is that we'll be teaching you material relevant to the module you are taking at a point that is before you are writing assignments. This is the change that has given us some work trying to ensure people are in the right place at the right time, and also on occasion divides APL students from the rest of their year, though we've sought to minimise this as much as possible. As part of this, there are one or two weekends when students are invited to join their year group for a weekend, but won't have teaching relevant to their module – the time on Saturday can be used for library, study, and the opportunity to talk to staff about the module.

The second change is that all the module-relevant teaching will take place on Saturday, when we will be joined by 1st and 2nd year candidates for LLM ministry in Salisbury diocese, about 5 in each year. Those joining us in the 2nd year will inevitably be an existing group coming in to an existing group, but we're sure there will be a generous inclusion. They will be here for the teaching and lunch only, though they will have an option to start their day by coming into our 9am chapel worship if they wish. However, for you, this will not change the course, and the voice training, worship leading, &Co groups and worship matters of a weekend will follow as currently. In fact, we've already used the weekend framework for a couple of this year's weekends to test it.

The following table looks quite fearsome, but hopefully it should be decipherable.... It probably contains too much information, trying to cover all the bases! But it tells you what pathways are attending each of the two teaching streams on a module weekend, which &Co groups are doing worship and hosting duty, and then splits the pathways up to show which weekends each of them are at.

Please, if you find any discrepancies within this table, or with the key dates, tell Paul asap. He will grimace, but be ultimately thankful!
